PRICE, FIVE CENTS.

ALUMNI ENGLISH PRIZE CONTEST.

Trachtenberg '11, Bird '12, Hickey '11, the Winners.

On Tuesday, Professor Brenton announced the results of the essays written for the three Alumni English Prizes. This year the committee on the awarding of prizes consisting of Rev. Arthur J. Gammack, of Lenox, Mass., awarded first prize to Bird '12, second prize to Hickey '11, and third prize to Trachtenberg '11. The successful contestants will deliver their essays as orations in public for the Frank W. Whitlock prizes.

Bird, who took second prize in the same contest last year, wrote on "The College Education of the Future." Hickey's essay was entitled "An Arraignment of Socialism," and will be an interesting oratorical comparison with the essay of Trachtenberg on the subject "The Role of Students in the Russian Revolution." The essays chosen were of a high order of merit as about twenty essays were handed in. From all appearances the contest for the Whitlock prizes will be a close one.

The Alumni English prizes are twenty-five, twenty and fifteen dollars respectively.

My dear Professor Brenton,

I am returning the essays with my judgment as to their comparative merits. Let me say at once that I am very much struck with the fine qualities of the essays as a whole. There is a striking lack of literary self-consciousness; language is used as a means and not an end. Each writer is interested in his subject and seems filled with a desire to convey to others conclusions he himself has arrived at by careful thought.

I have judged the essays by three "criteria"; the depth and clearness of impression left on my mind by the presentation of the subject, the knowledge and application of technique, and the grace and charm in the choice of words and the use of phrases and figures.

By these tests I place first "The College Education of the Future." We have here a thoughtful contribution to a present problem, and the contention here presented is likely to recur in the mind of one who has read the essay and to be quoted when the subject is discussed. The argument is presented logically and with due regard to the rules of composition. Apt quotation and happy phrase lend charm to the essay.

I place second "The Arraignment of Socialism." The feature of this essay is its excellent articulation; the logical arrangement enables the different sections to re-enforce one another, and the whole is easily remembered. The rules of rhetoric are carefully observed. A certain pungency in the argument rather than in the language (as in the paragraph next to the last) lends a charm to the whole.

I place third "The Role of the Stu-

C. N. G. MEET.

Trinity Entries.

Nine Trinity men will participate in the Armory Meet scheduled to be held the 21st, but only one man, Theodore Wessels '14, will officially represent the college. He will run in the intercollegiate mile. The remaining men are entered as unattached. They include: W. R. Rosenbaum '14, 75-yard dash; S. Swift '13, one-half mile; G. A. Heater '13, 75-yard dash; D. S. Pulford '13, pole vault; P. J. Ahern '12, one-half mile; P. Maxon '11, pole vault; Harry Wessels '12, pole vault; Crehorne, non-matriculate, will enter the open half-mile. Owing to the difficulty of getting the men together for training purposes, it was thought better to have each man enter individually than to place a team in the field.

The meet will include a special one-mile relay between Amherst College and Columbia University; a special two mile relay between Pennsylvania and Harvard Universities; and a special one mile relay between Brown and Wesleyan Universities. The intercollegiate one-mile run in which Trinity is represented has the following entries:

Trinity—T. F. Wessels.
Massachusetts Aggies—D. S. Caldwell.
D. G. Tower, F. M. Shaylor, R. C. Barrows.

Amherst—Snow, Cobb.
Wesleyan—Harris, Thompson, Lewis.
Brown—Taber.

More than $166,000 was earned by the students of Columbia University during the last scholastic year. This is an increase of $60,000 over the previous year.

HOCKEY TEAM ON TWO DAY TRIP.

Rensselaer and the Army Will be the Opponents.

The Hockey team started Friday morning on a two day trip. The first game will be played with Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N. Y. on Friday. This will prove a hard game for the Gold and Blue; but the men have been favored with good ice for the past week and have been practicing hard, so it is expected that the men will be in better condition than in the Amherst game last Saturday.

On Saturday the team will journey to West Point where the second game of the trip will be played with the Army. This game is one of the most difficult on the schedule, but it is expected that a good contest will be put up by the Gold and Blue.

Besides Captain Haight the following men will take the trip: Howell, Rankin, Brainerd, Burgwin, Pomeroy, Little and Walker or Bleeker.

MANY ORDERS RECEIVED.

No Ivy This Year Except for Those Who Order in Advance.

The first half of the 1912 "Ivy" is ready for the press. It contains the dedication, faculty, college body, fraternities and some other material whose nature the board does not care to divulge at present. The remainder of the volume is still in the hands of the various contributors and artists, but will be sent to the printer within a fortnight. Publication is set for May 1.

All the illustrations are to be from original drawings and photographs made especially for the "Ivy." In past years much use has been made of "stock" illustrations furnished by the printer, and this is the practice of by far the greater number of college annuals. The making of new cuts is an expensive process, but efficient administration of the financial affairs of the board has warranted this increased outlay.

Business Manager Flanagan reports that enough subscriptions have already been received to put the book on a paying basis, and that no more copies will be printed than are subscribed for before March 15, when the order must be filed with the printer. In previous years "Ivy" boards have had bitter experience with unredeemed subscriptions, so taking advantage of this lesson, the present board has resolved to enter no subscriptions unless accompanied by fifty cents as a guarantee of good faith, the remaining dollar to be paid on delivery.

Alumni who desire copies should send in subscriptions at once. When cash in full accompanies the order, express charges will be prepaid.

BASKETBALL WITH S. T. S.

First Home Game Saturday Night.

On Friday evening Springfield Training School will be the opponents of the basketball team in Trinity gymnasium. This is the only home game of the season and there should be a good turnout of the students. The team has been practicing hard for the past week and hopes to come off victorious. One game has already been played with this team at Springfield, Mass., resulting in a victory for S. T. S. 25-24. An extra period was necessary to decide the contest as it was a tie at the end of the regular allotted time. The men who will compose the Trinity team will probably be: Capt. Horan, Ramsdell, Carroll, J. B. Moore and Dissell with J. A. Moore as substitute.

ASTRONOMICAL ARTICLE BY PROFESSOR HONEY.

In the Scientific American of February 11th, there appears another article by Prof. Frederic R. Honey, the third one which he has contributed within a short time. The article is entitled "Morning and Evening Stars for 1911. A Graphic Representation of Planetary Positions." The article covers nearly a page and a half, and is illustrated by two charts, one of orbits of the major planets and the other of the orbits of the terrestrial planets. These charts are very intricate and specific in design, especially the latter which locates the morning and evening stars. In the article there are sections devoted to the sun and planets, the terrestrial planets, the asteroids, or minor planets, the major planets, conjunctions and oppositions, with tables.

LECTURE BY JOHN SPARGO.

Mr. John Spargo, the well known Socialistic writer and lecturer, was the guest of one of the students last Monday evening and gave an informal talk to a number of professors and students on the aims of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society. A chapter of that organization is being organized here.

Mr. Spargo said the one impression he desired to leave with his hearers was that the society was in nowise a propagandist movement. In other colleges, he said, there are many non-socialists among its members and even a number of strong anti-socialists. The object of the society as stated in its various publications is "to promote an intelligent study" of the subject. With this understanding several of the faculty have expressed a desire to further the movement.

After explaining the object and nature of the society, Mr. Spargo gave a brief outline of the different aspects in which socialism must be viewed to understand it thoroughly. His talk was eloquent and witty, and his ready replies to questioners brought forth frequent applause.

"NOW THEN—TRINITY!"

EDITORIAL.

The spirit of the Alumni is inspiring, to say the least, and at no time in the history of the college has it been shown to such advantage as within the last eighteen months—from the time when the half-million endowment fund was set under way until the present, when the associations of the Alumni are holding meetings, and booming Trinity far and wide throughout the land.

The presence of President Luther at the helm, with the able men on the faculty behind him, is becoming more and more appreciated by both undergraduates and Alumni. The benefits reaped by the President's annual tour of the West are large, and each year the returns increase proportionately. On the other hand, the men in college are trained by their instructors to become the loyal Alumni of the future. Such is progress.

A concrete case of the interest taken by the Alumni is well shown by the recent trip afforded the members of the Glee Club, due to the kindness of the New York Alumni. The inspiration received by the men who took the trip is one which will not be forgotten in the length of an entire academic course. The speeches were enlightening and of the kind which tell—that of Dr. Birchhead especially portrayed the spirit of the times, and no true son of Trinity could possibly have listened and imbibed anything less than a true understanding of the situation afforded by present conditions, and a far-reaching impulse to do his share in the work of the future. The tribute paid to President Luther was one not to be forgotten.

And so, as time goes on, we look for more and more of an awakening, extending far and wide, both to spread the name of Trinity, and to do the things which will reflect honor on our Alma Mater—the college on the hill.

dents in the Russian Revolution." The value of this essay as a composition depends on the vitality of the subject chosen and the interest of the writer in it. His aim is to convey the impression that a certain class of men played an important part at a national crisis, and one who reads the essay is not apt to forget that they did. The narrative, for such the composition largely is, has a swing about it and gathers a momentum that carries the reader along to the conclusion desired. The language is used as a simple but effective instrument of thought.

Hoping the above decisions meet with your approval and thanking you for the great privilege of examining with care essays which reflect credit on the writers, I am

Yours sincerely,
A. J. Gammack.

Colored Supplement.

A Yankee friend was visiting me at my country home in Kentucky. The only negroes he had seen anything of were the railway porters and the "educated" product found occasionally in New England.

"You've never heard a genuine down-South darkey speak, have you?" I asked my friend. On being informed that he had not, I went on to explain what their speech was like.

"In some respects, the speech of a darkey is just like that of a Chinaman. What? you've never heard of that? Well, here comes Uncle Sam, and I'll just prove it to you."

As the old negro came toward us, hobbling along on his walking stick, I greeted him thus: "Good morning, Uncle Sam. Whah-hee!" "Wha'who?" exclaimed the old darkey. My visitor was convinced.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company,

Hartford, Conn.

Why should I insure my life?

Because it is a debt you owe to those who are dependent upon your earnings for their support.

You admit that it is your duty to supply their needs from day to day, but forget that it is equally your duty to provide an ever ready and sufficient equivalent for your earning power, which your family stands in constant jeopardy to lose by your premature death.

Guard your family against disaster and yourself against dependency in old age.

When should I insure my life?

Now! The cost will never be less, and to-morrow you may not be able to obtain insurance at any price.

Even if others are not now dependent upon you, take time by the forelock and you will be the better able to meet future responsibilities, and at a smaller premium.

Where shall I insure my life?

In a purely Mutual Company.

In a company that earns, declares,
and pays annual dividends.

In a company that is doing a conservative business.

Such a Company is The Connecticut
Mutual Life Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. It furnishes perfect protection at lowest cost.

For further information, address the Company, or any of its agents.

The Harvard "Crimson" makes the appeal that the university should make more of an effort to attract high school students as opposed to those from preparatory schools. The "Crimson" is authority for the statement that more than half the public high schools of Massachusetts have not sent to Harvard a single man in ten years.

A rule has been passed by the faculty of the University of Washington forbidding the fraternities to pledge high school students.

At the University of Washington the girls are also eligible to wear the 'varsity
'W' for excellence in various branches of athletics. It is most evident that woman suffrage has accomplished something, somewhere, somehow.

Kansas University has, according to reports, suspended four of her students for crooked work in class politics.

A lively monkey, intended to be used

For ninety minutes the "monk" made things lively for the staid professors before he was finally captured.

Freshmen at the University of Wisconsin

They are compelled to run from building

Figures from "Who's Who in America," show Harvard has first place, with 813 names; Yale second, and Michigan third, with 271. Trinity may not be ranked with the above colleges, because of her comparatively small list of graduates, but in proportion to the number of graduates, "Who's Who in America" ranks Trinity foremost among the colleges of the country.

In a quarter of a century the number of members enrolled in the national fraternities has risen from 72,000 to almost 270,000, of whom 30,000 are women. The undergraduate membership in a single year now ranges between 30,000 and 35,000, and of the more than 1,700 chapters of these societies, 1,100 own or rent houses which at a conservative estimate are valued at
